

What should be posted in this Knowledge Base?

You should post anything that you think might be helpful in the future. This could include:

- links to UCLA resources
- links to resources of use to people at UCLA
- links to your own or other tutorials
- links to hard-to-find writeups
- links to useful resources, e.g. when buying a digital camera or computer, telephone, etc.

You should also create a page if:

- you want to remember a particular tool, technique, or website
- you want to share a resource or some information that has helped you
- you want to direct people to little known sections of your department website
- you want to collect a set of other articles together, e.g. advice for new faculty
