

Using a Google Account "Application Specific Password"

Quoting, "Some applications that access your Google Account (such as Gmail on your phone or Outlook) cannot ask for verification codes. To use these applications, you will not use verification codes. Instead, you'll enter an application-specific password in place of your normal password."

Link below is also valid when seeking to revoke a password on a trusted device. For instance, revocation may be desired on a potentially compromised device or a device which has been lost.

See—

- <https://support.google.com/mail/answer/1173270?hl=en>

---

Revision #1

Created Sun, Jan 11, 2015 11:27 PM by Postovoit, Philip

Updated Sun, Jan 11, 2015 11:27 PM by Postovoit, Philip