Data Journalism

- 5 ways journalists can use Nuzzel with Twitter lists – " Andy Brightwell shows how you can use Nuzzel to burst your filter bubble, follow people in a particular location or industry, see the world from someone's perspective, or create a niche newsletter. – April 5, 2017
- Resources to Find the Data You Need, 2016 Edition – Nathan Yau, FlowingData blog – Nov. 11, 2016
- How to get started in online investigations with open-source intelligence – July 11, 2016
- ASU Cronkite School teams up with Google News Lab to spread innovation – June 13, 2016
  - Introducing the Google News Lab
  - Google News Lab
- 5 ways to find useful Snapchat accounts to follow as a journalist – May 31, 2016
- How to read and understand a scientific paper: a guide for non-scientists – May 19, 2016
- Congressional Budget Office Launches New Search Tool for Intergovernmental and Private-Sector Mandates – May 10, 2016
- How to verify images like a pro with Google Earth – Jan. 19, 2016
- How to find local Twitter reaction to a national event – Jan 13, 2016
- The Journalist-Engineer – Oct. 25, 2015 JUST ADDED
- Facebook Introduces Signal To Help Journalists Source And Discover Social Content – Sep 17, 2015
- 3 tools for finding geolocated posts on social media – Sep. 10, 2015
- GitHub tutorials and resources for journalists – Aug. 12, 2015
- Bookmark These Five Great Deep Web Research Resources – July 16, 2015
- Exploring the 7 Different Types of Data Stories – June 15, 2015
- Emily Bamforth wrote a thesis on Twitter and its use by foreign correspondents – April 2015
- The one word journalists should add to Twitter searches that you probably haven't considered – April 27, 2015
- Towards a Standard for Algorithmic Transparency in the Media – Tow Center for Digital Journalism – April 27, 2015
- Meet Sqoop: New tool helps reporters dig up stories, delivering alerts about public records – April 22, 2015 a new online tool that alerts journalists when public documents become available online
- A Tool for Instant Data Visualizations – April 9, 2015 How News Corp, Columbia University Graduate School of Journalism, NYU Polytechnic School of Engineering, and NYC Media Lab are working together to build something new

- 15 tips for newsgathering via Twitter – Sarah Marshall, Wall Street Journal, March 30, 2015

- Drilling Down: A Quick Guide to Free and Inexpensive Data Tools – Feb. 25, 2015 from Global Investigative Journalism Network

- FEMA has released a new data visualization tool. – Jan. 9, 2015

- Google Chrome browser extensions for journalists – Jan. 7, 2015

- Scrape Web Pages with YQL and Apps Script – Dec. 2, 2014 AMIT AGARWAL

- The New York Times open-sources its Hive crowdsourcing platform – Dec. 9, 2014

- Introducing Charted

  A new way to share data – Charted is a tool that automatically visualizes data. Give it the link to a data file and Charted returns a beautiful, shareable visualization of that data. – Nov. 24, 2014 Medium.com

- Dataminr is now available for news organizations – Oct. 8, 2014

- Meet Dadaviz: A Curated, YouTube-Style Distribution Platform For Data Visualizations – Sept. 22, 2014

- Extract text from any document; no muss, no fuss. – July 27, 2014

- Arms Identification With Wikipedia, Holiday Photographs, and Shoe Size Conversion Charts – July 27, 2014 – Eliot Higgins – Bellingcat – by and for citizen investigative journalists

- http://datajournalismhandbook.org/

- Overview – Visual document mining for journalists – "Overview is an open-source tool originally designed to help journalists find stories in large numbers of documents, by automatically sorting them according to topic and providing a fast visualization and reading interface. It's also used for qualitative research, social media conversation analysis, legal document review, digital humanities, and more." http://overview.ap.org/about/

- http://www.niemanlab.org/2014/07/amnesty-international-launches-a-new-site-to-help-journalists-verify-youtube-videos/

- https://source.opennews.org/en-US/articles/introducing-tabula/ – "Upload a PDF, get back tabular CSV data."

- http://gigaom.com/2014/07/18/want-to-help-fact-check-breaking-news-like-the-malaysian-airplane-disaster-heres-how-and-where-you-can-do-it/

- http://www.tableausoftware.com/products/public – Tableau Public is a free tool for data visualization, and now has a Mac version.

- How to find out if a photo your friend posted online is fake

- http://www.niemanlab.org/2009/06/four-crowdsourcing-lessons-from-the-guardians-spectacular-expenses-scandal-experiment/

- How to locate published and unpublished U.S. Congressional Hearings