

Social Science Simulations

Online simulations are a interesting way to present concepts and ideas visually, as well as provide an interactive element to learning.

This page will serve as a resource for future investigations into creating simulations as well as those that are currently available.

Here are a few examples of Flash simulations:

Jerusalem Archeological Park

Exploring Ibsen

VoiceThread

VoiceThread enables users to create dynamic presentations that combine audio, video as well as user inputted drawings and text.
